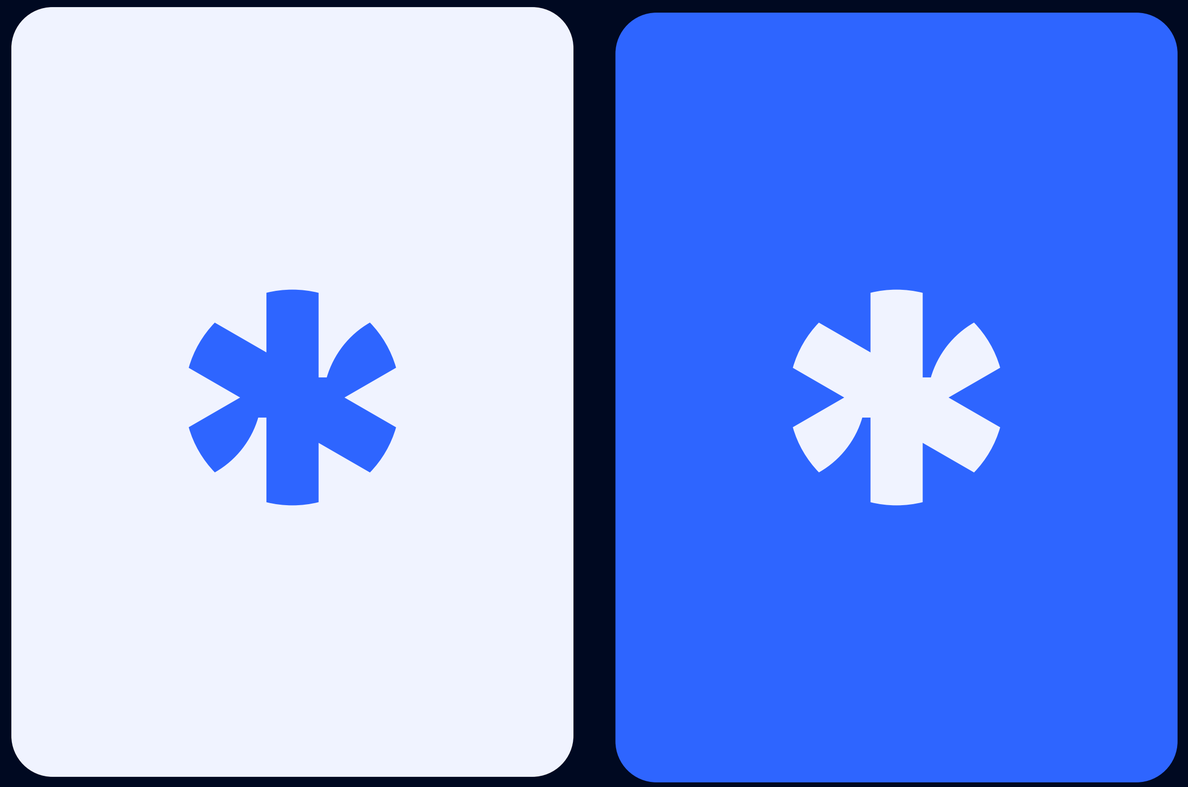
LOGO ICON VARIATIONS



LOGO ON IMAGE

The logo can be used on any image as the main component, as a secondary element and as a watermark as well. To enhance the logo on an image and to increase it's visiblity we can make the background image a bit dark which makes the logo standout.

ACCEPTABLE USAGE

Logo acceptable usage refers to adhering to the guidelines and rules set by a brand for the proper and consistent application of their logo. It ensures that the logo is used in appropriate contexts, maintaining its integrity, legibility, and brand representation. Following these guidelines helps preserve brand identity and ensures a professional and unified brand image across various media and marketing materials.

NOT ACCEPTABLE USAGE

Not Acceptable Usage: Unauthorized or improper use of a logo that deviates from brand guidelines, leading to potential confusion and a negative impact on the brand's image. Stick to guidelines for accurate and professional representation.

Do not stretch, rotate, use shadow, break placement, make outline

LOGO SCALING

Logo scaling involves resizing a logo while retaining its visibility and recognition. This ensures consistent branding across various platforms and sizes. Proper scaling maintains a logo's integrity, whether on a small icon or a large banner. It's essential for a cohesive and recognizable brand identity

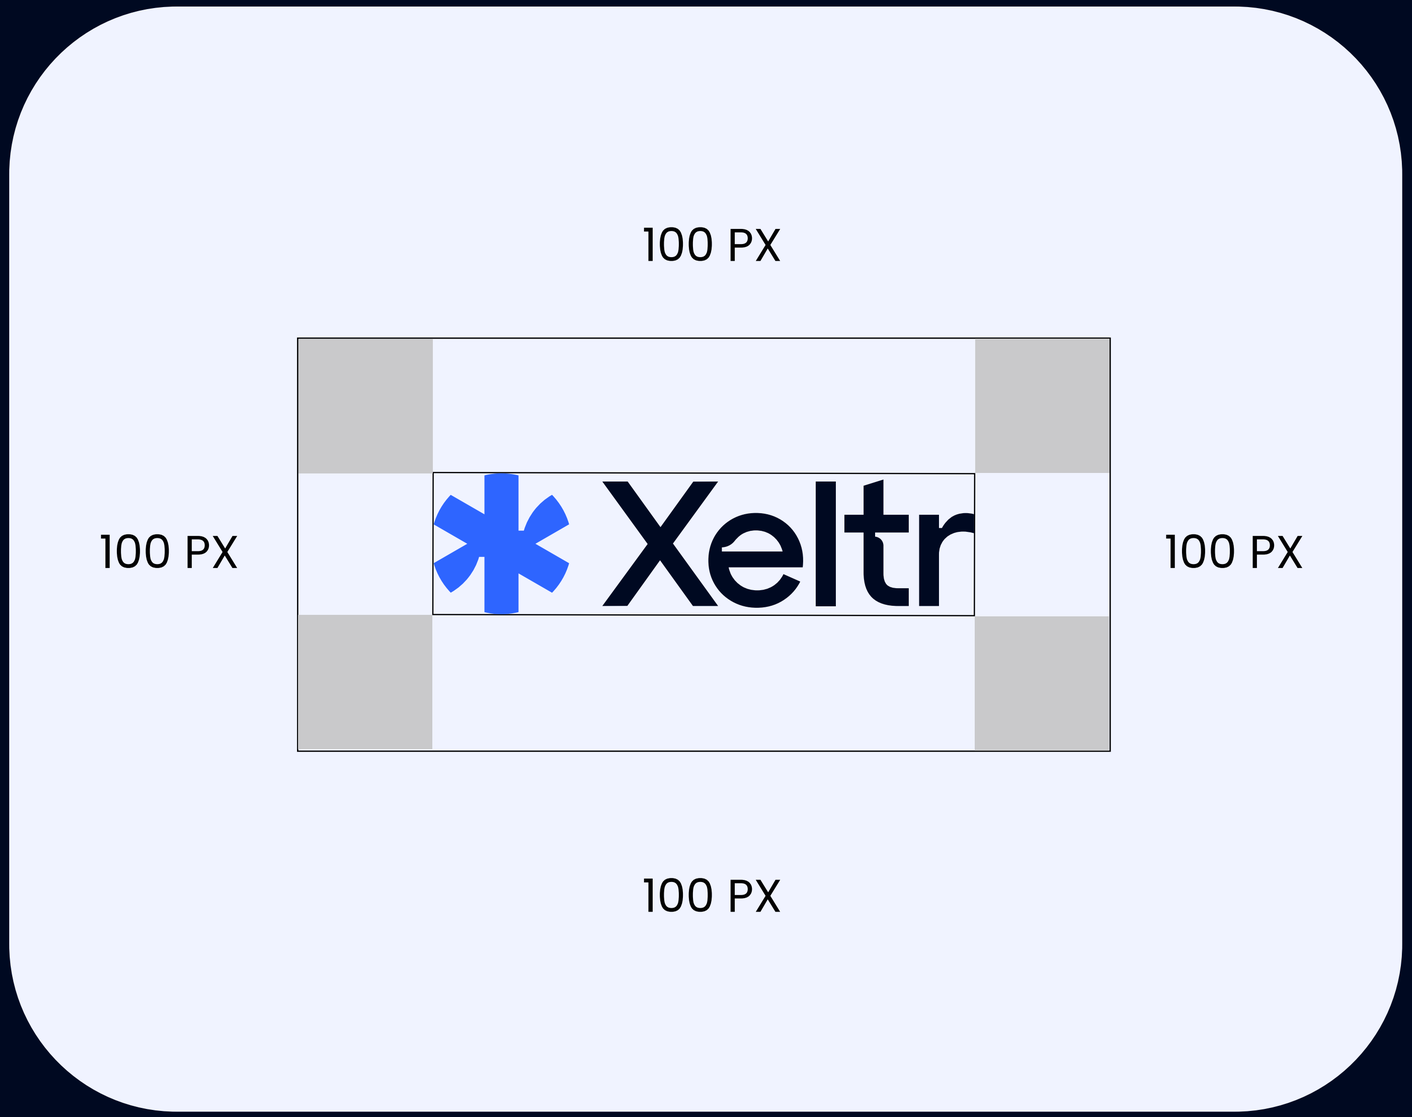
LOGO SPACING

Logo clear spacing, also known as logo padding or minimum clear area, refers to the specified empty space around a logo that should be kept free from any text, graphics, or other elements. This clear space ensures that the logo remains visually distinct and uncluttered, enhancing its visibility, legibility and overall impact. Adhering to the clear spacing guidelines helps maintain the logo's integrity and prevents it from being crowded or obscured by other content, ensuring a strong and recognizable brand presence in all applications.



FAV ICON

A favicon is a small icon that appears in browser tabs, bookmarks, and on mobile home screens. It helps users quickly recognize your website and adds a professional touch to your brand online.
